Section B 段落匹配

Directions: 阅读下列段落，为每个句子选出所对应的段落。每个段落可能被选一次、多次或不被选择。

A Congratulations on deciding to get married!While being married is great and wonderful,the act of getting married can be quite stressful.There is the planning of the ceremony itself,the merging(合并)of two households and all of the details involved in that.You also have to take the time to apply for your marriage license and then decide whether or not you are going to keep your last name or change it.

B This is where a lot of people have trouble.Once upon a time,it was just customary for a bride to take her groom's last name as her own and abandon her maiden name completely.The act of keeping her own last name was considered taboo(禁忌)and people's eyebrows would raise right off their faces when they found out that the bride was even considering something so radical.Over time,though,more and more women are deciding to keep their last names.

C There are a lot of reasons to want to keep your own last name.Hopefully you have a supportive groom who understands why this idea is the most appealing to you.A lot of times,though,the act of keeping your name is still something that causes concern.Even if your groom is fine with it,his family (or your own)might not be so understanding.

D There are a couple of ways to compromise on the issue.You could choose an entirely new last name for the two of you to share.This way neither of you gets"your"way and you both have to deal with the legalities of going through a name change.Most of the time,though,the most popular compromise is to hyphenate your last name and the last name of your groom.For example,if your groom's name is John Smith and your name is Kate Jones,you would name yourself Kate Jones-Smith or Kate Smith-Jones.This allows you to keep going by your own last name while legally adopting your husband's last name at the same time.

E The compromise is the biggest reason that so many women choose to hyphenate their last names.It is a way of you keeping your own identity while also making your future husband happy.It allows you to stay connected to accomplishments that you achieved before you got married.For example,many women who choose to hyphenate do so partially because they have earned higher educational degrees and certifications under their maiden names.They might have also had things published or publicized and want to stay connected to that identity.Hyphenating your last name can help you bridge the gap between your personal and professional lives.Many women who opt to simply keep their own names do so because they don't want to give up all that they have accomplished professionally.Adopting their husband's last name makes it hard for them to claim ownership of these accomplishments personally because they happened under their “other” name.

F While tradition is one thing,there isn't any logical reason to completely change your name.Keeping your name and joining it to your husband's through hyphenation is as legal as simply adopting his name or as simply keeping your own and leaving his out of the picture entirely.

G Probably the most important reason to consider hyphenation is your identity.You've spent your whole life building your identity under a certain name.Obviously you will still be you even if you've taken on your husband's last name and omitted yours entirely.At the same time,your name is associated with the identity you've built up and hyphenation allows you to respect that while also respecting tradition and your husband's family's identity.

H If you care about outside opinions on your name,you should know that a large portion of today's society is annoyed by the hyphenated name.Some people find it “snobby”(势利的)and others simply find it irritating because they have a hard time remembering which last name they are supposed to say first.Some people even believe that not simply adopting your husband's last name is a huge sign of disrespect and a lack of commitment.

I It is possible that your future husband will find this choice offensive.Some men,regardless of how you might feel about such things,are traditionalists and feel that it is simply "right"for the woman to take the man's last name as her own.Whether your future husband insisting on your adopting his last name is a red flag to you or not,it is still something that you should take into consideration.

J There are all sorts of reasons to hyphenate your name or not to hyphenate your name.The basis for each of these things,however,is whether or not you are willing to make a compromise when it comes to changing your name.The hyphenation is the epitome(体现)of a compromise.One spouse wants a complete name change.The other spouse wants no name change.Hyphenating the two names is a way for each person to,at least a little bit, “win” the argument.

K And don't forget the legal stuff!Making the decision is just part of the process.From there you are going to have to legally change your name all over the place.You'll need to change your name at the bank,with social security,with your credit cards,on your driver's license,at the gym....everywhere.It's easy to get overwhelmed just thinking about it.

L What matters,of course,is that the two of you are going to be happily married—hopefully for the rest of your lives.At the end of the day,whether you each keep your names,whether you come up with an entirely new name for the two of you to share or whether you hyphenate your current last names,what matters is that you love each other and are going to be joining your lives together.Try to remember that as you are staring at the application for your marriage license and filling out the portion that reads “name after you get married” (or whatever the legalese for that might be).

Section C 阅读理解

Passage One

It's good to be smart.After all,intelligent people earn more money,accumulate more wealth,and even live longer.But there's another side to the story.The brightest people and strongest leaders sometimes make errors others don't,especially in situations that require common sense.

Travis Bradberry,president at TalentSmart,explained in his post Why Smart People Act So Stupid that “Rational thinking and intelligence don't tend to go hand in hand.Intelligent people are more prone to silly mistakes because of blind spots in how they use logic.These blind spots exist because smart people tend to be overconfident in their reasoning abilities."They are so used to being right and having quick answers that they don't even realise when they're making a mess by answering without thinking things through.

A lifetime of praise leads smart people to develop too much faith in their intelligence and abilities.They often fail to recognise when they need help,and when they do recognise it,they tend to believe that no one else is capable of providing it.

“It's hard for anyone to graciously accept the fact that they're wrong.It's even harder for smart people because they grow so used to being right all the time that it becomes a part of their identity,"Bradberry wrote."For smart people,being wrong can feel like a personal attack,and being right,a necessity."

Smart people also have a hard time accepting feedback.They tend to undervalue the opinions of others, which means they have trouble believing that anyone is qualified to give them useful feedback.Not only does this tendency hinder their growth and performance,it can lead to harmful relationships,both personally and professionally.

Smart people develop overachieving personalities because things come so easily to them.They simply don't understand how hard some people have to work to accomplish the same things,and because of that,they push people too hard.They set the bar too high,and when people take too long or don't get things quite right,they assume it's due to a lack of effort.So they push even harder.

1. What do we learn from the passage about the brightest people?
A. They can make silly mistakes in straightforward situations.
B. They usually turn a blind eye to their own weaknesses.
C. They are admired by people around them.
D. They can differ in their personalities.

2. What accounts for the existence of intelligent people's logical blind spots?
A. Their irrational way of thinking.
B. Too much faith in their ability to think.
C. Their ignorance of behavioural science.
D. Too much concern about their work.

3. How do smart people react when they are found to be wrong?
A. They shift the blame to others.
B. They graciously accept the facts.
C. They may feel shocked.
D. They may get offended.

4. What may happen to smart people who find it difficult to accept suggestions?
A. They may suffer in their professional and private life.
B. They may lose faith in their administrative abilities.
C. They may commit more errors than ever before.
D. They may experience a lot of emotional stress.

5. What is said about those working with or under overachieving people?
A. They put a lot of effort into their work.
B. They set higher goals for themselves.
C. They are under increasing pressure.
D. They take less time to get things done.

Passage Two

Of the endless troubles that come with being driven from one's home country,losing educational certificates may seem small.But it isn't.Refugees who settle in other countries often find themselves unable to continue on their previous career path due to a new set of employer standards or skills requirements.To solve this problem, the U.S.State Department is posing a solution:online learning.

The State Department will announce a partnership with an online education platform called Coursera.The platform will allow refugees worldwide to take thousands of online courses for free. “Coursera for Refugees” will be available for any non-profit group that supports refugees in any country,as well as individual refugees. They can apply for fully funded access to Coursera's course catalog,which means they can take all of the platform's classes and obtain professional certificates for free.The platform currently offers professor-led lectures on a broad range of topics,from data science to fashion design.

As the world migrant crisis intensifies,employment is becoming a global concern.The new program aims to aid refugees by offering"important skills that will help them in the global economy,"Evan Ryan,U.S.assistant secretary of state for educational and cultural affairs,said on a press call last week."What we don't want to do is not act,” added Coursera chief operations officer Lila Ibrahim.

The idea isn't without problems.For one,starting a new career path isn't as simple as watching a few videos and obtaining an online certificate;even those looking to continue previous careers can't simply rely on an online lecture to get them up-to-date on standards,policies,and practices.For another,most of the classes on Coursera are in English,and though there are plans to add translations,language barriers can be a big obstacle.Then there are the questions over the value of massive open online courses (MOOCs)themselves—both for refugees and for average learners.

But it's still early days and there are signs of hope.In 2015,a joint study found 72%of people taking the MOOCs saw career benefits afterwards.

1. Why is the U.S.State Department launching an online learning program for refugees?
A. To enable them to settle down in host countries.
B. To allow them to learn as many job skills as possible.
C. To offer them a platform to pursue advanced degrees.
D. To help them to meet new employment standards.

2. What do we know about “Coursera for Refugees”?
A. It provides refugees with a wide range of courses free of charge.
B. It offers free online data services for refugees around the world.
C. It allows refugees to obtain degrees in various academic fields.
D. It supplies refugees with a great variety of job opportunities.

3. What does the passage say is a consequence of the global migrant crisis?
A. Instability increases in host countries.
B. The global economic crisis intensifies.
C. A lot more refugees die during migration.
D. Refugees find it more difficult to get a job.

4. What does the author say causes refugees'dificulty in taking online courses?
A. Cultural environment.
B. Changed academic requirements.
C. Lack of language skills.
D. Difference in teaching platforms.

5. What did the joint study find about the MOOCs several years ago?
A. They helped solve learners'financial problems.
B. They benefited most of the learners.
C. They changed some learners'career path.
D. They provided the most needed vocational skills.

Part IV 翻译 (Translation)

Directions: For this part, you are allowed 30 minutes to translate a passage from Chinese into English. You should write your answer on Answer Sheet 2.

近年来，越来越多的城市居民为农村的田园风光所吸引，利用节假日到乡村旅游。他们住在农民家中，品尝具有当地风味的农家饭菜。有些游客还参与采摘瓜果等活动，亲身感受收获的喜悦。乡村旅游能够有效地帮助游客舒缓压力，放松心情，增进身心健康。实际上，这种旅游形式不仅能使城市游客受益，同时也能增加农民的收入，促进农村经济发展。

College English Test, Band 4, Part 2, Listening Comprehension, Section A, Directions.
In this section, you will hear three news reports. At the end of each news report, you will hear two or three questions.
Both the news report and the questions will be spoken only once. After you hear a question, you must choose the best answer from the four choices, marked A, B, C, and D. Then mark the corresponding letter on answer sheet 1 with a single line through the center.
Use report 1. African leaders planned to turn the continent into a continent without borders.
They will introduce a single passport policy allowing free movement between countries.
The idea from the African Union has been modeled on the EU-Shengen Free Movement Deal.
Europe has abolished many internal borders. This enables visa-free movement across the continent.
Currently, 13 African countries have visa-free deals in place with each other.
These allow citizens to visit another country without a visa.
Some countries offer visas on arrival.
In contrast, Americans are able to travel to 20 of the continent's countries without a visa, or secure a visa on arrival.
The African Union, which represents 54 states, wants to abolish the requirement of a visa for Africans visiting other African countries.
It also wants to establish a free trade deal across the continent in the near future.
As trade within the African continent, cost more than any other region.
Questions 1 and 2 are based on the news report you have just heard?
Question 1. What is the news report mainly about?
Question 2. What benefit will a free trade deal bring to African economy?
News Report 2.
Researchers in Iceland found a new way of tackling climate change by pumping carbon dioxide underground and turning it into stone.
Other carbon capture and storage methods store carbon dioxide as a gas, but problems include a high cost and concern about leaks.
This new method of barring carbon dioxide and turning it into stone is cheaper and more secure the Guardian reports.
To turn carbon dioxide into stone, researchers with the Carb-Fix project pumped the gas into volcanic rock and sped up the natural process in which the volcanic rock reacts with gas and forms carbon minerals.
The gas turned into solid in just two years.
Much faster than the hundreds or thousands of years researchers had predicted.
The research took place at Iceland's Hela Shidi power plant.
Already, the project in Iceland has been increased in scale to bury 10,000 tons of carbon dioxide each year.
One potential difficulty is that for each ton of carbon dioxide buried, the technique requires 25 tons of water.
However, the lead researcher said sea water could be used.
Questions 3 and 4 are based on the news report you have just heard.
Question 3.
What new method has been developed to help fight climate change?
Question 4. What is a potential difficulty in applying the new technique?
News report 3 People in France are keeping away from the narrow French stick-loaf in favor of healthier cheaper options and Miller's Association has said.
The National Association of French Millers says bread consumption is on the decline.
With French people eating 9 grams less than in the previous year.
The association is concerned about the effects this trend will have on their trade, and suggests three reasons why it is happening.
Firstly, the association cited changing diets.
In particular, this switched to those low in calories.
as a factor in the reduction of bread consumption.
This could explain why the difference in consumption between genders is so big.
Nowadays, men eat an approximate average of 140 grams of bread daily, whereas women eat 80 to 90 grams.
The second reason they say is lifestyle changes in the country,
With people dedicating less time to breakfast, when bread would traditionally be eaten with butter and jam.
Finally, the rising cost of bread is considered to be a factor.
With the price of a French stick loaf, increasing by nearly 25% in the last 10 years.
Questions 5-7 are based on the news report you have just heard?
Question 5. What does the news report say about French people's bread consumption?
Question 6. What do we learn about French women from the report?
Question 7 What is said about lifestyle changes of the French people?

Next, please.
Yes, I'd like to book two train tickets to London tomorrow morning, please.
Okay, what time would you like to go?
Well, after the rush hour, I think.
We'd like to avoid the crowds if possible.
So probably sometime around 10 o'clock.
No problem, just give me a minute.
There's one here at 947, then one at 1012,
And then a third at 1026.
The one at 12 minutes past 10 sounds good.
All right.
Would you like to sit in first or second class?
Second class is fine. Thanks.
Is there any chance we could have a window seat for one of those?
No problem.
And I've booked those seats next to each other for you.
The total price is 36 pounds, 50 cents.
Is there anything else?
Yes, actually.
We'll be taking our bicycles with us.
What is the arrangement for that?
And will it cost extra?
It's no extra cost.
The price will be the same.
All you need to do is wait at the far end of the platform.
When the train arrives, tell the train guard where you're going, and he will help you secure the bicycles in the last carriage and give you a ticket.
Then you can walk down through the train to your carriage and take your seats.
When you arrive in London, hand the ticket to the guard and he will return the bicycle to you.
Thank you for the information.
That's very helpful.
Questions 8-11 are based on the conversation you have just heard.
Question 8.
When would the man like to leave for London?
Question 9. What is the man's other request?
Question 10. Where should the man wait for the train?
Question 11. What should the man do to collect the bicycles?

Good morning. Our guest today is Karen Brooke. Karen is the managing director of Cube Movie Theater located on Underhill Road. Thank you for coming Karen.
Thank you for having me. So tell us about your cinema. Cube Movie Theater.
Sure. Cube Movie Theater has been around now for 11 years. It's located in what used to be a Yeah, there used to be many hat factories in Britain and tell around the 1950s, but fashion changed and most people stopped wearing hats. So practically all of those factories had to close down. This one in particular was closed for 47 years before we transformed it into a movie theater.
I see. I hear there's something else that makes your theater special. What is it that sets you apart from other theaters.
We are the only movie theater in the whole country that only shows foreign movies.
Is there enough demand for that?
I would have thought that in London most people don't speak foreign languages.
Sure, there's enough demand.
The fact that we have been open and in business for all these years proves it.
London is a very large and international city.
There are lots of people interested in watching such movies.
Furthermore, I might add, all movies come with English text at the bottom of the screen.
So even if you don't understand what the actors say, you can still read it.
Of course.
What movie are you showing right now?
This week we're showing a musical from Pakistan.
It's very popular.
Questions 12-15 are based on the conversation you have just heard.
Question 12.
What do we learn about hap factories in Britain?
Question 13. What is special about Cube Movie Theater?
Question 14.
What does the man say about most people in London?
Question 15.
What does the woman say about foreign movies shown in London?

Passage 1
Love them or hate them, smart phones have become an integral part of our daily lives.
But should they be left outside the classroom?
Nick Gibb, Minister for School Standards in England, believes schools should ban their pupils from bringing in smart phones.
Astrid Natalie, a secondary school math teacher, incorporates phones into her classroom.
My school doesn't have money for tablets, she says. When students use their phones for research, they learn they have a powerful tool in their hands. If we stop children using phones, we're rejecting something they care about. Meanwhile, Helen Lockhart, a registered nurse working for community education, supports a complete ban.
I'm banned from mobile use at work, and my phone must be handed in.
If I'm caught with it in my pocket, I will be subject to disciplinary procedure, which will impact on my career.
We need to teach children how to behave like the professionals they're striving to become.
Richard Stone and English teacher thinks there should be a clear separation between school and home.
Students should do things differently in the two environments.
Children are getting more than enough screen time in their lives without the need to bring their phone into the classroom.
The internet is too easy and too unreliable or research tool, so let's leave phones and laptops at home and show them a different world in their lessons.
One of books and pens, he says.

Passage 2. Kate, a six-year-old girl, helped her brother Wash Windows to get a reward promised by her mother. A purple doll that she wanted. She watched her mother order the doll online. The next day, Kate asked if she could check the shipping status, so her mom clicked on the webpage, and then walked out of the room. Kate saw that her doll would be arriving the next afternoon, but then she noticed something else. Suggestions about other dolls and toys she could order. 15 minutes and a few clicks later, with more than $350 worth of dolls in her cart, Kate placed the order, and ran off to play. The next day, while dolls on the way.
She was able to cancel two of them, but it was too late to cancel the rest.
She told her daughter that they were going to be returned.
When the packages arrived, Kate wanted to open them, but her parents said no.
Instead of sending back the dolls, her father suggested giving them to the local children's hospital.
So the next week, Kate's family loaded up their car and took all the dolls to the playroom at the children's hospital.
Kate was depressed at first, but then she sat with some girl patients and they opened up all the boxes together, laughing and playing. She had a lot of fun and learned a really good lesson.

Passage 3.
Can the date you were born affect how successful your life is?
According to recent research done in Australia, the answer is yes.
The researchers found that the time when a person starts school has an enduring impact on their lives.
Those who are relatively old compared to their classmates have certain advantages over them.
Previous research has found older students achieve better results.
They are also more likely to attend university and become professional athletes, chief executives, and even important politicians.
But the Australian researchers wanted to discover what was driving these differences.
They suspected older, more mature students obtained more self-confidence than their peers, because they achieved better grades.
To test this out, they conducted two studies.
One was with high school students and the other with more than 1,000 Australian adults.
Age between 24 and 60 years old.
In the first study, more than 600 high school students were surveyed about their tendency to take risks and feel confident.
In the second study, those born on both sides of the cut-off date for starting school were asked to complete online math questions and rate their performance.
They were also asked about the risks they took while writing bicycles and managing their finances.
The researchers found that older students displayed greater risk-taking tendencies, while risk-taking can be considered a negative attribute.
It's also a characteristic of successful people, including athletes, political leaders, and entrepreneurs.
