Part III Reading Comprehension 段落匹配

Directions: 阅读下列段落，为每个句子选出所对应的段落。每个段落可能被选一次、多次或不被选择。

A For the past four decades,the leader of Formula One car racing,one of the biggest annual sporting series in the world,was Bernie Ecclestone,a former motorcycle parts dealer who built it into an international presence essentially on his own.

B A skilled backroom operator who speaks without a filter,Ecclestone said often that in his opinion,the sport was at its best when he was allowed to act as "a dictator."

C Yet now the dictator is gone.After an American company,Liberty Media,acquired the Formula One competition recently,Chase Carey—a former executive with Fox Broadcasting Company and DirecTV who by his own admission is not a fierce racing fan-was named to replace Ecclestone and to try to renovate the organization's management,reach and ambition.

D Among the goals,Carey said in an interview on Tuesday,is one that just about every global sport seems interested in chasing:increasing interest in the United States. "People have said we're going to 'Americanize'it,"Carey said."And we're not going to do that totally.But realistically,there are some elements of Americanization that the sport could use."

E While Formula One commands enormous audiences throughout much of the world, many American sports fans know it as that other motorsport,the one that is not Nascar (纳斯卡车赛).Formula One teams race far more technologically advanced vehicles around tracks all over the world-in magnificent events in places like Malaysia,Monaco, Singapore and the United Arab Emirates,and on tradition-rich tracks like Silverstone in England and Monza in Italy too.

F The series has an annual race in Austin,Texas.But within "a few years," Carey said,he plans to bring another to a destination American city,like New York,Los Angeles, Miami or Las Vegas.Carey's ambitious plan is two-fold:first,change the business model of Formula One,which he said was a "one-man show" under Ecclestone that had a largely narrow vision when it came to negotiating partnership deals;and second,alter the way fans experience the sport,both in person and remotely,so that connections between the audience and people within the series are easier to make.

G Increased digital access for fans,a more behind-the-scenes experience for broadcast viewers and innovation in areas like virtual reality—what is it like to speed around a track inside a Ferrari?—are among the possibilities. "The sport has clearly been underserved," Carey said. "It doesn't do anything digitally.There's no marketing.It doesn't tell any stories.The goal in this is to make the fans connect to the live experience as much as possible,and the tools you have to do that,we're not using at all."

H The larger question,though,is a familiar one:Is there room for Formula One in the ever-crowded sports landscape of the United States?Opinions vary,particularly because viewing habits among consumers continue to evolve.John Bloom,a professor at Shippensburg University who has studied American sports history,said the biggest challenge for any sport trying to increase its presence in the United States was framing itself in a way that had lasting appeal. "Sports generally become popular in some way because they establish a narrative," Bloom said. "When I think of motorsports in the U.S.,what we all think of is Nascar,and the narrative of Nascar is sort of rural,white, working-class Americans,mostly in the South,connecting with the atmosphere of those races.That's the narrative.When I think of the narrative of Formula One,it's a very different kind of audience."

I That difference,Carey said,is significant.While some might immediately link Formula One to Nascar in terms of American growth,Carey said Formula One's brand research had indicated there was very little crossover;rather,Formula One fans generally cite other so-called elite events,like Wimbledon or the Ryder Cup,as competitions they enjoy. "Other than they're both cars,the Nascar fan base is a very different fan base," Carey said. "It's a very regional fan base.Formula One is a global,famous brand of stars.These are machines that shock and awe you."

J Carey's background is in deal making and innovation.At Fox Broadcasting Company, he was a top advisor for years,known for his skill in helping to lead the launch of the company into sports,as well as the start of Fox News Channel.After going to DirecTV, he positioned the satellite provider as a mainstream option in millions of households.

K Now,after Liberty Media paid $4.4 billion to acquire Formula One,he is charged with making the investment pay off."I think they can build Formula One in the U.S.,"said Patrick Crakes,an executive at InVivo Media Group who spent 25 years at Fox Broadcasting Company before leaving in 2016 as a senior manager at Fox Sports. "People don't work on their cars anymore.They don't want that connection anymore. It's about technology and pushing the limits.It's about speed,danger and risk.And Formula One has that more than any other racing series."

L That is what hooked Carey,and he said he thought his experience was not unusual.He recalled attending Formula One's Monaco race last year and being overwhelmed by the ceremony leading up to the event,the way the race charmed the city for days ahead of the start.In his mind,it felt like a Super Bowl (超级碗橄榄球赛).

M Then,on race day,he watched as the cars rocketed out of a tunnel and went screaming toward a tight turn with the city's harbor and the Mediterranean Sea in the background framing the scene.He was fascinated. "You can't help but be awed," he said, "and I think that feeling can be translated to the viewer."

N He added: "The broader sport is a little too inward-looking,and we need to be more open.In some ways,I'm glad to be coming from the outside.The guys who are in the sport forever are sitting there saying: 'We can't do that.We can't do that because it's never been done that way."

Part III Reading Comprehension 阅读理解

Passage One

Supermarkets have long been suffering as one of the thinnest-margined businesses in existence and one of the least-looked-forward-to places to work or visit.For more than a decade,they have been under attack from e-commerce giants,blamed for making Americans fat,and accused of contributing to climate change.

Supermarkets can technically be defined as giants housing 15,000 to 60,000 different products.The revolutionary idea of a self-service grocery,where people could hunt and gather food from aisles rather than asking a clerk to fetch items from behind a counter,first came about in America.There is some debate about which was the very first,but over the years a consensus has built around King Kullen Supermarket,founded in New York in 1930.

For some 300 years,Americans had fed themselves from small stores and public markets.Shopping for food involved mud,noisy chickens,clouds of flies,nasty smells, bargaining,and getting short-changed.The supermarket imitated the Fordist factory,with its emphasis on efficiency and standardization,and reimagined it as a place to buy food. Supermarkets may not feel cutting-edge now,but they were a revolution in distribution at the time.They were such strange marvels that,on her first official state visit to the United States in 1957,Queen Elizabeth II insisted on an impromptu (即 兴 的)tour of a suburban-Maryland Giant Food.

The typical supermarket layout has barely changed over the past 90 years.Most stores open with flowers,fruit and vegetables at the front as a breath of freshness to arouse our appetite.Meanwhile,they keep the milk,eggs,and other daily basics all the way back so you'll travel through as much of the store as possible,and be tempted along the way.

In the early days,as the supermarket multiplied,so did our suspicion of it.We have long feared that this "revolution in distribution" uses corporate black magic on our appetite. The book The Hidden Persuaders,published in 1957,warned that supermarkets were putting women in a "hypnoidal trance (催眠恍惚状态), "causing them to wander aisles bumping into boxes and picking things off shelves at random.

1. What problem have supermarkets been facing?
   - A. They are actually on the way to bankruptcy.
   - B. They have been losing customers and profits.
   - C. They are forced to use e-commerce strategies.
   - D. They have difficulty adapting to climate change.
2. What does the passage say about the idea of a self-service grocery?
   - A. It was put forward by King Kullen.
   - B. It originated in the United States.
   - C. It has been under constant debate.
   - D. It proves revolutionary even today.
3. What did supermarkets do by adopting the Fordist factory approach?
   - A. They modernized traditional groceries in many ways.
   - B. They introduced cutting-edge layout of their stores.
   - C. They improved the quality of the food they sold.
   - D. They revolutionized the distribution of goods.
4. What is the typical supermarket layout intended to do?
   - A. Arouse customers'appetite to buy flowers,fruit and vegetables.
   - B. Provide customers easy access to items they want to buy.
   - C. Induce customers to make more unplanned purchases.
   - D. Enable customers to have a more enjoyable shopping experience.
5. What have people long feared about supermarkets?
   - A. They use tricky strategies to promote their business.
   - B. They are going to replace the local groceries entirely.
   - C. They apply corporate black magic to the goods on display.
   - D. They take advantage of the weaknesses of women shoppers.

Passage Two

The traditional school year,with three months of vacation every summer,was first implemented when America was an agricultural society and the summer months were needed for farm work.Since then,we've completely changed as a nation.Students no longer spend summers farming,but they aren't in school,either.The average American student receives 13 weeks off from school each calendar year-with about ll of those during the summer.Few other countries have more than seven weeks off in a school calendar.

With the U.S.lagging behind other countries in academics,it's time to consider year-round schooling.One benefit of this change is that students will not fall victim to the "summer slide," or the well-documented phenomenon where students forget some of the knowledge they have acquired when too much time is taken off from school.Decades of research shows that it can take from 8 to 13 weeks at the beginning of every school year for students to get back to where they were before the summer holiday.

But year-round schooling isn't just about academics.Teachers and students experience a closer relationship in year-round schools than they do in traditional schools and,in the absence of any long-term break,students do not feel detached from the school environment. These closer bonds and greater attachment pay off.Research shows that students in year-round schools are more self-confident and feel more positive about their schooling experience

But don't kids need time to relax?Some childhood development experts believe that time off from school is vital to healthy development as kids are not designed to spend so much of their time inside classrooms and the summer break provides a perfect opportunity to get outside.The problem with this argument is that most children aren't playing outside or even spending time with other kids.While some children visit summer camps,most stay at home,watching TV or playing games on electronic devices,which hardly benefits them.

The U.S.has changed from a farming economy to a knowledge-and innovation-based economy,so it makes sense for the school year to change as well.

1. Why did America's traditional school year have a three-month summer vacation?
   - A. Students needed to help with farm work.
   - B. Students needed time to learn necessary farming skills.
   - C. The agricultural society then attached less importance to academics.
   - D. America lagged behind other countries in making a scientific school calendar.
2. What benefit will year-round schooling bring students in addition,to improving their learning?
   - A. It will help them get back to where their lessons started.
   - B. It will enable them to absorb what they have learned.
   - C. It will familiarize them with the school environment.
   - D. It will strengthen their relationship with teachers.
3. What do some childhood development experts believe about the long summer vacation?
   - A. It meets students'need to study on their own.
   - B. It enables students to learn about the outside world.
   - C. It satisfies students'desire to stay longer at home.
   - D. It contributes to students'healthy growth.
4. What is the argument against the experts'idea of a long summer vacation?
   - A)It does little good to most students.
   - B)It benefits few students playing outside.
   - C)It leads students to neglect their studies.
   - D)It makes students addicted to computer games.
5. What does the author think of the traditional school year in the U.S.today?
   - A)Well-grounded.
   - B)Culture-bound
   - C)Outdated.
   - D)Welcomed

College English Tirst Band 4. Part 2, Listening Comprehension, Section A, Directions. In this section, you'll hear three news reports. At the end of each news report, you'll hear two or three questions. Both the news report and the questions we spoken only once. After you hear a question, you must choose the best on to sheet one with a single line through the center.
News report won.
Police have reported a man being bitten by a four-foot snake when he lifted his toilet seat on Sunday morning.
The snake was not poisonous, so the man did not have to go to the hospital, but his arm was medically treated at the scene.
The police officer interviewed, told news reporters,
the snake didn't belong to the man,
and it was unclear how it got into the apartment.
This snake was eventually captured by the local animal handlers and taken to an animal hospital afterward.
It was being treated for an outer skin infection.
It was unclear who the owner was.
The snake may be taken to a local zoo for care if the owner does not come forward.
Over the years other creatures like frogs and fish have found their way into toilets.
But this was the first instance of a snake in recent years.
Questions 1 and 2 are based on the news report you have just heard.
Question 1.
What do we learn from the police report?
Question 2.
What does the reports say were still unclear?
News report too.
Every week since last April, Andrea Belcher has been doing something slightly unusual and amusing when she takes out her trash.
It all started off when a movie star shared a photo of herself putting her trash bins out in a ball gown. This inspired Andrea to get dressed up to take out the trash. She was too embarrassed to do it during the day, so one dark evening she put on her black off the shoulder gown and put her trash bin out, her daughter filmed it and the whole family laughed, but seemed to go down well. The following weeks she found other outfits in her dressing up box, and dressed up as different characters and famous people, sharing her exploits on social media. Before long, people started offering up their own fancy dresses for her to wear. And before she knew it, she had done 20 weeks. Explaining why she has kept up the videos, Andrea explain how nice it was to have a little bit of fun and craziness that made people smile.
Besides, it also helps to remind people in the community to put out their trash bins each week.
Questions 3 and 4 are based on the news report you have just heard.
Question 3. What has Andrea Belcher been doing since last April?
Question 4. Why has Andrea Belcher kept up her videos?
New Support 3.
No Money, but Still Hungry?
No Problem.
Welcome to Frank's Restaurant, where customers are paying for meals and leaving receipts on a board.
Anyone who is hungry and wants something to eat can take one, no questions asked, and hand it to the staff for some food.
The idea for the board of free meals started after a donor came in with $100 for each member of its staff.
After two staffers returned their share, there was $700 left over, according to Terra Morris, the owner of the restaurant.
So they decided to do something more by creating the board.
The Board of Free Meals inside the restaurant shows a host of potential meals already paid for by customers, each costing about $10.
The Board has messages of kindness, like if you want more kindness in the world, put it here.
The drive has been going on for two weeks, and more is said, just under 50 customers have picked up a free meal.
There have been no reports of anyone taking advantage of the situation.
In fact, there are a lot more people giving tickets than receiving.
It seems people want to help and are driven by helping others.
Questions 5-7 are based on the news report you have just heard.
Question 5.
What can people do at Fring's restaurant?
Question 6. What does the owner of the restaurant say about the idea for the board of free meals?
Question 7. What has happened at Frank's restaurant since the board of free meals was created?

Section B, directions. In this section you will hear two long conversations. At the end of each conversation, you will hear four questions, both the conversation and the questions will be spoken only once.
After you hear a question, you must choose the best answer from the four choices, marked A, B, C, and D.
Then mark the corresponding letter on answer sheet 1 with a single line through the center.
Conversation 1
Welcome to our program, Friends and Relationships.
Our guest today is psychologist Steve Pinker from McGill University.
Glad to be here, Jane.
Hi Steve. Our question today is why friends suddenly disappear.
They may block us on their social media accounts and stop responding to our emails.
They simply vanish without a trace.
The answer may lie in childhood.
The way the person related to their mum and dad is related to their attachment styles.
Attachment styles?
Yeah, there are two different attachment styles.
An anxious attachment style and an avoidant attachment style.
When there is a relationship breakdown with their parents, children with an anxious attachment style screen and cry to get the parents to come back. But other children simply shut down and try to deal with their emotions by ignoring the situation. And these attachment styles carry on into adulthood.
Does avoidance reduce their stress levels?
Not really. Their stress levels are actually the same as those experienced by the children who yell and scream.
And I assume both might be termed insecure.
Exactly. And it's a very insecure attachment.
How does an insecure attachment affect relationships between friends, coworkers and romantic relationships?
It's the same as conflicts.
So if you have disagreement with a securely attached person, they're not going to panic.
They're able to hear what the other person is saying and express their own feelings and thoughts effectively.
However, an insecurity attached person won't.
They might either attack you, get defensive, or just disappear from your life.
To them, a different no matter how small in your eyes, signals the end of the relationship.
That explains why they suddenly disappear.
Questions 8 to 11 are based on the conversation you have just heard.
Question 8, what do we learn about the man?
Question 9. What are the speakers mainly talking about?
Question 10. How do children with an anxious attachment style react to a breakdown in their relationship with parents?
Question 11. What does the man say about insecurely attached people?
Conversation 2.
I hear you're going to Japan soon.
Yes, that's right.
Could I ask you a favor?
Sure, what is it?
I was wondering if you could get me some jeans while you're there.
I'll pay you back, of course.
A pair of jeans?
Okay, I don't see why not.
But what's wrong with jeans here?
Well, I just love good jeans and Japan have to make the best in the world.
My friend brought me a pair from their five years ago and they still look new.
Really, I had no idea Japan made jeans.
I would have thought America made the best jeans because it's a typical American garment.
Yeah, I thought so too, but it turns out Japan still has some very old mills with the traditional weaving tools used to make jeans the original way.
It's a slower process of making clothing, but the end result is surely superior.
Also, the fabric they use is of a higher quality and the dies unnatural.
They have a denser weave and a more durable than any other genes in the world.
That sounds cool.
What size do you want?
And how much are they?
I have a 34-waste and size 30 or 32 in length.
Either is fine.

听力篇章原文 / Passages（英文）

Section C, directions. In this section you will hear three passages. At the end of each passage you will hear three or four questions. Both the passage and the questions will be spoken only once.
After you hear a question, you must choose the best answer from the four choices, marked A, B, C, and D. Then mark the corresponding letter on answer sheet 1 with a single line through the center.
Passage 1. Every time I walk out of a superhero movie, I feel the same way. I experience a sense of longing, realizing that there should be more in life. The desire for adventure as a human one. Superhero films captured this desire perfectly. The plot of each superhero film has become relatively predictable. The world is in peril. The world needs a hero. The hero is in peril. The hero resolves the peril. The hero saves the world. Each film has an attractive lead. Several expensive explosions, a few jokes lighten the mood, and numerous punches that land unrealistically well. Even though we basically know what will happen, we keep coming back for more. The elites of our society have rejected superhero films. They say the films like any form of artistry. These movies are criticised as being too simple, but they give the fans what they want. Entertainment. No matter the form in which they reveal themselves, hero stories will always be present in life. It's not just about being entertained, but also being inspired.
One author has mentioned that women desire to play an irreplaceable role in a great adventure.
Most young women want to be a part of something grand, something important. It seems clear that this principle applies to men as well. So next time you see your favourite superhero film, be entertained, but also be inspired. That that small longing you feel motivates you to make a difference.
Question 16 to 18, are based on the passage you have just heard? Question 16, how does the speaker feel every time he walks out of a superhero movie?
Question 17. What does the passage say about the plot of all superhero movies?
Question 18. What do the elites of Americans' society think of superhero movies?
Passage 2.
Telling stories is one of the most powerful means leaders have to influence, teach, and inspire.
Storytelling forges connections among people.
When it comes to our countries, our communities, and our families, we understand instinctively that the stories we hold in common are an important part of the ties that bind.
This understanding also holds true in the business world where in organizations' stories and the stories its leaders tell help solidify relationships in a way that factual statements don't.
Good stories do more than create a sense of connection.
They build familiarity and trust.
They allow the listener to enter the story, making them more open to learning.
Good stories can contain multiple meanings, so they're surprisingly economical, in conveying complex ideas in graspable ways.
And stories are more engaging than the recital of data points, or a discussion of abstract ideas.
Stories about professional mistakes, and what leaders learned from them are another great avenue for learning.
Because people identify so closely with stories, they can imagine how they would have acted in similar circumstances.
They are able to work through situations in a way that's risk-free.
There are extra benefits for leaders.
With a simple personal story, they can convey fundamental values.
They can offer insight into the evolution of their own experience and knowledge, presenting themselves as more approachable.
And then, they are more likely to inspire others to want to know more.
Question 20. What can good stories do to listeners according to the passage?
Question 21. What can leaders do with a simple personal story?
Passage 3 The US was founded by successive ways of immigrants and immigrants are still contributing to America today, statistics prove it.
On two key measures of financial performance, immigrants outperform native born Americans.
First, they're more likely to be entrepreneurs.
From 1996 to 2016, the pace at which immigrants started businesses was double that of US-born individuals.
Immigrants aren't just becoming entrepreneurs more frequently, they're often succeeding.
Over 40% of Fortune 500 companies had a founder who was either an immigrant or the child of one.
Another key measure of financial strength is debt level.
Immigrants do better in this area too.
Immigrants use credit less often for purchasing cars, homes or starting businesses.
This results in significantly lower levels of debt than native born Americans.
For example, 34% of Americans born in Latin America report no credit card or installment loan debt.
This can be compared to just 19% of the general population.
Why are immigrants doing so well?
The values and habits they bring from their own home lands help explain some of the success.
Unemployment tends to be higher in developing countries.
That means more people must become entrepreneurs.
Credit is also scarce in most developing countries.
This means individuals must save more in order to achieve their goals.
Or they borrow money from friends and family, rather than a bank.
That means less debt and potentially better credit outcomes when they reach the US.
Questions 22-25 are based on the passage you have just heard.
Question 22. What does the passage say statistics prove?
Question 23. What do we learn about immigrants in the US?
Compared with Native born Americans.
Question 24. What does the passage say about immigrants in the US in terms of financial strength?
Question 25. What do immigrants do to achieve their goals in the US?
That's the end of listening comprehension.
