Section B 段落匹配

Directions: 阅读下列段落，为每个句子选出所对应的段落。每个段落可能被选一次、多次或不被选择。

A Most of us spend much more time with digital media than we did a decade ago. But today's teens have grown up with smartphones. Compared with teens a couple of decades ago, the way they interact with traditional media like books and movies is fundamentally different.

B Analysis of surveys of over one million teens in the United States collected since 1976 reveals a major shift in how teens are spending their leisure time. Paper books are being ignored, in favor of screens. Digital devices are changing other behaviors, too. More and more, young people choose spending time on their electronic devices over engaging in other activities, regardless of the type. Indeed, by 2016, the average American high school senior said they spent six hours a day writing text messages, on social media, and online during their free time. And that covers just three activities, and if other digital media activities were included, that estimate would no doubt rise.

C Teens did not always spend that much time with digital media. Online time has doubled since 2006, and social media use has moved from a periodic activity to a daily one in the same period. By 2016, nearly nine out of ten young women in the 12th grade said they visited social media sites every day. Meanwhile, time spent playing video games rose from under an hour a day to an hour and a half on average. One out of ten American 8th grade students in 2016 spent 40 hours a week or more playing video games. Let me emphasize that this is equal to the time most adults spend per week at work.

D If teens are spending so much time using electronic devices, does that mean they have to give up some other activities? Maybe not. Over the years, many scholars have insisted that time online does not necessarily take away time spent engaging with traditional media or on other activities. Some people, they argue, are just more interested in certain kinds of media and entertainment. Thus, using more of one type of media does not necessarily mean less of the other.

E That may be true, but that still does not tell us much about what happens across a whole generation of people when time spent on digital media grows. Large surveys conducted over the course of many years tell us that American youth are not going to the cinema nearly as often as they did in the past. While 70 percent of 8th and 10th grade students used to go to the movies once a month or more, now only about half do this. More and more, watching a movie is something teens choose to do on their electronic devices. Why is this a problem? One reason is that going to the cinema is generally a social activity. Now, watching movies is something that most teens do alone. This fits a larger pattern. In another analysis, researchers found that today's teens go out with their friends much less often than previous generations did.

F But the trends related to movies are less disturbing compared with the change in how teens spend their time. Research has revealed an enormous decline in reading. In 1980, about 60 percent of senior high school students said they read a book, newspaper or magazine every day that was not assigned for school. By 2016, only 16 percent did. This is a huge drop and it is important to note that this was not merely a decline in reading paper books, newspapers or magazines. The survey allowed for reading materials on a digital device.

G Indeed, the number of senior high school students who said they had not read any books for pleasure in the last year was one out of three by 2016. That is triple the number from two decades ago. For today's youth, books, newspapers and magazines have less and less of a presence in their daily lives. Of course, teens are still reading. But they are generally reading short texts. Most of them are not reading long articles or books that explore deep themes and require critical thinking and reflection. Perhaps not accidentally, in 2016 reading scores were the lowest they have ever been since 1972.

H This might present problems for young people later on. When high school students go on to college, their past and current reading habits will influence their academic performance. Imagine going from reading texts as short as one or two sentences to trying to read entire books written in complex language and containing sophisticated ideas. Reading and comprehending longer books and chapters takes practice, and American teens are no longer getting that practice.

I So how can this problem be solved? Should parents and teachers take away teens' smartphones and replace them with paper books? Probably not. Research has shown that smartphones are currently American teens' main form of social communication. This means that, without a smartphone, teens are likely to feel isolated from their peers. However, that does not mean teens need to use electronic devices as often as they do now. Data connecting excessive digital media time to mental health issues suggests a limit of two hours a day of free time spent with screens, a restriction that will also allow time for other activities—like going to the movies with friends or reading longer, more complicated texts.

J The latter is especially important. I would argue that of all the changes brought about by the widespread use of digital devices, the huge decline in reading is likely to have the biggest negative impact on today's teens because reading books and longer articles is one of the best ways to learn critical thinking. It helps people to understand complex issues and to separate fact from fiction. Thus, deep reading is crucial for being a good citizen, a successful college student and a productive employee. If serious reading dies, a lot will go with it.

Section C 阅读理解

Passage One

Have you ever wondered how acceptable it is to hug or touch someone? While it may sound safe to avoid all physical contact so as not to offend anyone，the lack of touching might imply cold attitudes or indifference in interpersonal relationships.

So, what should we do? The simple answer is to thoroughly learn unique cultural norms for physical contact. In nonverbal communication terminology（术语），physical contact and the study of touching are generally referred to as haptics.

Haptics in communication often suggest the level of intimacy. They are usually classified into two groups：high-contact and low-contact.

Asia and quite surprisingly the United States，Canada and Britain belong to low-contact cultures. People from the rest of the world，such as Latin America，are considered to be in high- contact cultures where they tend to expect touching in social interactions and feel more comfortable with physical closeness. Despite the classification，there are more complex factors such as relational closeness，gender，age，and context that can affect how someone views physical contact.

One common French custom of greetings is cheek-kissing，but it is mostly restricted to friends，close acquaintances and family members. While cheek-kissing for Latin Americans is also a universal greeting form，it does not require such a high degree of relational closeness. However，gender matters more for them because cheek-kissing often only happens between women or a man and a woman but not two men.

In contrast，in certain Arabian，African，and Asian countries，men can publicly hold hands or show physical affection as signs of brotherhood or friendship while these behaviors may suggest a romantic relationship in other parts of the world. Although men's touching is more normal in these cultures，physical contact between persons of opposite sexes who are not family members is negatively perceived in Arabian countries.

These factors could definitely affect the degree to which someone is comfortable with tactile （触觉的）communication and physical intimacy. Therefore，if you are someone who loves to show physical affection，you should not be afraid to show it or drastically change your behaviors—just ask for consent beforehand!

1. What does the author say in the first paragraph about physical contact?
   - A. Its role in interpersonal relationships is getting increasingly important.
   - B. It is becoming more acceptable to many who used to think it offensive.
   - C. Its absence might suggest a lack of warmth in interpersonal relationships.
   - D. It might prompt different responses from people of different social backgrounds.
2. What does physical contact in communication suggest?
   - A. What social class people belong to.
   - B. How civilized the communicators are.
   - C. What family background people come from.
   - D. How close the communicators' relationships are.
3. What do we learn about people in high-contact cultures?
   - A. They are sensitive to the way people express their emotions.
   - B. They take touching as a cultural norm in social interactions.
   - C. They attach great importance to close ties among people.
   - D. They tend to be more open in interpersonal relationships.
4. What do we learn about social customs in Arabian countries?
   - A. Men can show friendship in public through physical affection.
   - B. Non-traditional romantic relationships are simply unacceptable.
   - C. Physical contact between unfamiliar people is negatively perceived.
   - D. People of different ages and genders show affection in different ways.
5. What does the author tell us to do concerning tactile communication?
   - A. Lay emphasis on nonverbal communication.
   - B. Learn to use appropriate body language first.
   - C. Pay attention to the differences between genders.
   - D. Take other people's preference into consideration.

Passage Two

From climate change to the ongoing pandemic（大流行病）and beyond，the issues facing today's world are increasingly complex and dynamic. Yet solving problems like these requires new approaches that extend beyond traditional ways of thinking. A study led by Yale Professor of Psychology，Paul O'Keefe，found that having a growth mindset（思维倾向）of interest may spark this type of innovation.

Professor O'Keefe established in earlier studies that people hold different beliefs about the nature of interest. Those with a growth mindset of interest tend to believe that interests can be developed and cultivated，while those with a fixed mindset of interest tend to believe that interests are inherent（与生俱有的）and simply need to be found.' Building on these findings，the latest research examined how a growth mindset of interest can boost integrative thinking across the traditional disciplinary boundaries of arts and sciences.

For example，in one task，research participants were instructed to create new college majors by combining two or more existing academic Arts or Science programs at their university. After coding and analyzing the ideas they generated，the team found that people with a growth mindset of interest were more likely to bridge programs across the arts and sciences to create new majors like computational economics rather than creating majors that drew from only one of those areas，like computational chemistry.

As Professor O'Keefe pointed out，"This research provides a useful direction for organizations whose products and services call for integrated and creative solutions. Take smartphones for example. You need not only computer science and engineering knowledge，but also an understanding of psychology and visual design to create a better product. Employees with a growth mindset maybe more likely to devise innovative ideas that bridge multiple areas of knowledge to achieve better solutions."

The benefits of a growth mindset of interest may also extend to those seeking employment. This is a pressing issue because many people are becoming unemployed due to the COVID- 19 pandemic. Having a growth mindset of interest can help job seekers expand their interests and become more adaptable to different fields，and take the initiative to learn new skills.

1. What does the author say about the world today?
   - A. It faces problems that are getting more varied and complicated.
   - B. It has done away with many of the traditional ways of thinking.
   - C. It is undergoing radical and profound changes.
   - D. It is witnessing various types of innovations
2. What did Professor O'Keefe find in his earlier studies?
   - A. Pcople's interests tend to change with age.
   - B. People's interests determine their mindsets.
   - C. People are divided about the nature of interest.
   - D. People of different ages have different mindsets.
3. What is the focus of Professor O'Keefe's recent research?
   - A. How boundaries can be removed between arts and science disciplines.
   - B. How feasible it is to create new disciplines like computational economics.
   - C. How students in arts and sciences view the two types of mindset of interest.
   - D. How a growth mindset of interest can contribute to cross-disciplinary thinking.
4. What does the author want to illustrate with the example of smartphones?
   - A. Hi-tech products are needed in interdisciplinary research.
   - B. Improved technology gives birth to highly popular products.
   - C. Making innovative products needs multidisciplinary knowledge.
   - D. Hi-tech products can boost people's integrative thinking.
5. What is the author's suggestion to those who are seeking employment?
   - A. Learning practical skills.
   - B. Broadening their interests.
   - C. Staying safe in the pandemic.
   - D. Knowing their pressing issues.

News report 2
A white sheep named Prickles
That ran away from an Australian farm during the 2013 bushfires recently returned home.
According to Farmer Alice Gray, Prickles was only a lamb when she ran away.
The bushfires that hit the area back then destroyed a large part of her family's massive property.
They thought Prickles had died in the fire.
But instead, the young sheep escaped into a 200 acre forest near the farm.
Once the fires were over, the family had to fix the damage done to the farm.
As it was such a large property, this included rebuilding about 50 kilometers of fencing.
It was this huge fencing that prevented prickles from finding her way back.
Over the years, the family spotted her a few times.
They even recorded her with cameras installed to monitor deer activity.
But while they knew prickles was alive, they couldn't find her.
And never expected her to return by herself.
Seven years later, they were proven wrong.

Conversation 1
Hello, you're through to customer service. This is Michael speaking.
Before we continue, I just want to make you aware that this call is being recorded and may be used in the future for training purposes.
What can I help you with today?
Hi, my name is Jean Seaman.
I recently bought an office chair from your company, but I returned it about a week ago.
I'm just calling to inquire when I will be able to get my money back.
It says on your website that your company will pay back the money within three working days of view receiving the returned item.
But it's been five working days and I haven't received anything.
I'm sorry to hear that, Mr. Seaman.
What's your customer reference number please?
It's 389-460.
Okay, 389-460.
I'm just looking on the system here and according to our records, the chair you returned was received by our warehouse on Friday morning.
The payment was made on Wednesday, but this seems to be a problem with your card number.
My card number?
Oh, maybe it has something to do with my new card.
It was sent to me on Tuesday.
Maybe the bank cancelled my old one before you made the payment.
Well, you'll need to update your card details directly on our website.
Just make sure you logged in and then under the description of your personal information, you should see an option for updating payment methods.
I am logged in and I'll give that a go.
I'll make a note here on the system for you so that the payment will be made tomorrow morning.
Thank you very much.
Questions 8 to 11 are based on the conversation you have just heard. Question 8, why does the man have his conversation with the woman recorded?
Question 9. What is the woman's purpose of calling the furniture company?
Question 10. What does the woman say about her bank card?
Question 11. What is the man advised the woman to do?
Conversation 2
I'm getting a bit hungry
Yes, me too. I'm starving. Are you going to prepare a meal for us?
No, sorry. I'm actually pretty worn out. Let's just go out somewhere close to eat.
Well, I think we should stay in and save some cash. Can we get a meal delivered?
Yeah, great. I'll use that food delivery app on my phone. What do you want?
Fried chicken, hamburgers or fish and chips.
Oh, can we stay away from the junk food? How about something healthy?
Okay. Well, there's a place that does salads.
Let me have a look at that. Yeah, that looks delicious.
But, to be honest, I'd prefer something hot, not cold.
How about Indian food?
That's not the kind of hot I mean.
I'm just not a fan of sauces that make me sweat and cry.
I need something mild.
Okay, so would you consider Mexican?
Oh no, sorry, there's also very hot pepper in that.
Would you like some Italian food, perhaps?
It's a bit heavy, but it's great food for a cold night like this.
Pizza, spaghetti with creamy sauce?
I know it's really tasty and great comfort food, but it's too fattening for me.
I'm trying to keep a slim figure, you know?
Oh, you're really difficult to please.
Well, there's a nice Chinese restaurant that delivers.
Yes, I love Chinese food. Let me see.
Oh, it's 15 kilometers away.
That's a bit too far away.
Do you feel like Vietnamese food then?
Yeah, awesome.
It's healthy and we can afford it.
Great.
Let's order Vietnamese right away.

Section C, directions. In this section, you will hear three passages. At the end of each passage, you will hear three or four questions.
Both the passage and the questions will be spoken only once. After you hear a question, you must choose the best answer from the four choices, marked A, B, C and D.
Then mark the corresponding letter on answer sheet 1 with a single line through the center.
Passage 1. A new study carried out by the University of Lincoln has found a link between the personalities of cat owners and the behaviour and well-being of their cats.
The finding suggests that just as a parent's personality can affect the personality of a Owners defined as individuals with high levels of anxiety, fear, anger, depression, and loneliness were more likely to have cats with behavioral issues.
Such cats displayed more aggressive and anxious behavioral styles as well as more stress-related sickness.
They were also more likely to have an ongoing medical condition and be overweight.
The research also found that mentally well-adjusted owners had karma, happier and healthier cats. The researchers explained that many owners regard their pets as a family member and form close social bonds with them. The majority of owners want to provide the best care for their pets, and is therefore possible that pets could be affected by the way their is interact with and manage them. The study highlights an important relationship between our personalities and the well-being of our pets. Further research is needed to investigate the causal nature of this relationship and to look at how owners personalities are directly influencing their pets behaviour and well-being. It is possible that the well-being of pets is driven by the
Not simply by their conscious decisions and behaviors.

Passaged 2.
160 minute run can add seven hours to your life.
This was a claim made by the Times last week.
The claim was based on a new review of studies about the effects of running.
The review concluded that on average runners live three years longer than non-runners, and that running does more to extend life than any other form of exercise.
But there's more to running than its health benefits.
Research published in recent years has shown that running changes your brain and mind in some fascinating ways.
From increasing your brain function to regulating your emotions.
However, the precise effects vary according to whether you engage in short, fast running, or long distance running.
For example, in one study, researchers compared participants' ability to learn new words after several minutes of intense running,
And after 40 minutes of gentle running, participants were able to learn 20% faster after the intense running, and they showed a superior memory when tested again a week later.
In another study, researchers asked volunteers to jog for 30 minutes and then showed them clips from a sad movie.
Participants who usually struggled to handle negative emotions were more intensely affected by the sad clips.
Just as you expect.
But crucially, this was less so if they had completed the 30-minute jog.
The researchers said moderate exercise appears to have helped those participants to be less vulnerable to the impact of the sad movie.
Question's 19-21, a base on the passage you have just heard.
Question 19.
What do the new review of studies claim?
Question 20. What is one effect that running has on people according to recent research?
Question 21. What did another study find about the participants after they had a 30 minute jog.
Passaged 3.
Welcome to the tour of the Hill House.
This house built in 1904 is one of the most well-known works of Charles Hill, the famous architect.
It was designed and built for a local entrepreneur and his family.
Before starting the tour, let me give you a brief introduction about the design of this amazing building.
Prior to beginning his design, the architect spent some time in the client's old home, observing their life and studying their habits.
This meant that he could design the house according to the needs of the family.
The client's main desire was to have a home with a unique design, so the architect was given complete freedom.
The building style is radically different from what was the fashion of the period.
At the time, most large homes were constructed of timber and brick.
This one, however, is made of concrete, a novel construction material in those days.
The interior of the house, including fittings and furniture, was also designed by the same person.
Most of the furniture you will see is original and in good condition.
However, those pieces in the children's bedrooms are copies built to the designs of the architect.
Fortunately, all the blueprints for both the building and its contents have been preserved, so we've been able to replace badly damaged furniture.
Let's begin our tour starting from the rooms.
Questions 22 to 25 are based on the passage you have just heard.
Question 22. What do we learn about the speaker?
Question 23. What do the architect do before beginning his design?
Question 24. What do the architects client mainly want?
Question 25. What do we learn about the
the pieces of furniture in the children's bedrooms.
That's the end of listening comprehension.
